* Participating E Pro Network members listed are independent businesses that are solely responsible for the performance and quality of their work. Some contractors require a business license and some work requires a permit. Before you start working with your contractor, you should ensure that your selected contractor holds a business license if required by the municipality where work is taking place. For more information please visit:

- Alberta Municipal Affairs
 - When do you need a permit?
 - Electrical Safety Information Bulletin
- Electrical Contractors Association of Alberta

To avoid scams while working with contractors, consumers should:

- Always insist on a written contract.
- Check references – other satisfied customers are a great sign.
- Call the consumer protection line at 1-877-427-4088 if you have any concerns.
- Visit servicealberta.ca to learn more about consumer rights.
- If you have any questions, call the Consumer Contact Centre in Edmonton at 780-427-4088, toll-free in Alberta at 1-877-427-4088.

If you are a product or service provider and you are unsure of the licensing and permit requirements you may find more information through Service Alberta BizPaL Online Business Permits and Licenses.
